

Jennifer Evans is a Safety Consultant specializing in Construction safety and training, with some background in manufacturing. She supports Safex clients by utilizing her vast knowledge of common construction practices and safety standards to keep people safe and on the job. She has extensive experience with developing safety policies and collaborating with employees from every level of the business to implement them successfully.

Prior to joining the Safex team in October 2022, Jen was a Safety Consultant with a local PEO company and prior to 2020 she was working as a Journeyman Heavy Equipment Operator with IUOE Local 18. She was responsible for helping clients maintain their safety compliance and programs, identifying new safety concerns and suggesting or implementing resolutions as well as leading training initiatives for new hires.

Jen is still a member of Local 18, an authorized OSHA instructor for Construction and an Authorized CPR/First Aid/AED trainer with the Red Cross. She holds two associates degrees from Columbus state and has recently received her CHST certification from the Board of Certified Safety Professionals.
